

Digital Rights in Lebanon

Freedom of Expression and Opinion

Freedom of Information

Right to Equal Access and Opportunity

Right to Privacy

Submission to the 37th session of the Universal Periodic Review, Lebanon.

SUBMITTING ORGANISATIONS

Small Media

<https://smallmedia.org.uk/>

49 Chalton Street,
London, NW1 1HY,
United Kingdom

SMEX

<https://smex.org/>

4th Floor Kmeir Building, Badaro St.,
Beirut, Lebanon 00002,

Established in 2011, Small Media is a London-based organisation that works to support freedom of expression and access to information globally. Small Media works with their global partners to develop strategies and tools that can support human rights defenders, activists and journalists to work safely and effectively in the digital age. They support their network of partners to develop data-driven advocacy strategies that bring about meaningful change.

Founded in 2008, SMEX is a Beirut-based non profit association that advocates for a free and open, diverse and dynamic Arab internet through training, organizing, and localizing media empowerment. Their approach to advocacy involves initiatives in three areas: Capacity building, Movement building and Localizing media empowerment. SMEX PUSHES policymakers to improve their policies, circulated valuable information through blog posts and trainings, hosted conferences, conducted thorough investigations.

Access Now

<https://www.accessnow.org>

P.O. Box 20429
Greeley Square Station
4 East 27th Street
New York, NY 10001-9998

Established in 2009, Access Now defends and extends the digital rights of users at risk around the world. By combining direct technical support, comprehensive policy engagement, global advocacy, grassroots grantmaking, legal interventions, and convenings such as RightsCon, we fight for human rights in the digital age.